

Māori Tukutuku Panel

WORKSHOP

IN CONJUNCTION WITH CELEBRATING MĀORI LANGUAGE WEEK

Culture Connects us all

Tukutuku panelling is a distinctive art form of the Māori people of Aotearoa New Zealand, a traditional latticework used to decorate meeting houses (wharenuī) and homes (ngā kāinga). The “Tukutuku Toi Kit” (provided by Whatu Creative) is an innovative and contemporary take on the traditional craft kit, that teaches the traditional Māori artform of Tukutuku.

Please join Margaret Enoka to learn more about Tukutuku panelling and add a piece of the Māori culture to your home.
